SAMPLE CONTENT - TO BE REVISED
Fictional website demonstration. Not an actual publication, finding, or university endorsement.

Designing Agent Workflows for Knowledge Work

01 / Illustrative abstract

This fictional abstract outlines a framework for studying AI-agent workflows in knowledge-intensive business tasks. The example asks how task decomposition, human review, and recovery from errors could be evaluated together.

02 / Illustrative study design

Map tasks into agent actions and human review points
Compare workflow reliability under controlled failure cases
Measure quality, effort, and recoverability without claiming results